The first of the three is the most common, and is found in all the localities mentioned above. It is a small, round, blackish-brown seed, with a smooth surface, and a slightly flattened shape. It is very hard, and does not break easily. The second is a larger, more irregularly shaped seed, with a rough, pitted surface. It is also blackish-brown, but has a more yellowish tint. The third is a small, round, white seed, with a smooth surface. It is very soft, and breaks easily. It is found in the same localities as the other

1. Introduction
 The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of the proposed system on the performance of the system. The study is divided into two main parts: a theoretical analysis and an experimental evaluation. The theoretical analysis is based on the principles of the system and the experimental evaluation is based on the results of the experiments.
